

Call for Participants

Exiles Celebrating Sam

How emigrants from Down, Donegal, and Derry remember their All-Ireland Football Final victories

- Are you and/or our parents/grandparents from County Down, County Donegal, or County Derry?
- Did you live in England, Scotland, or Wales in the early 1990s?
- Do you remember Down (1991 & 1994), Donegal (1992), and Derry (1993) winning the Sam Maguire Cup?
- Do you recall celebrating in Britain?

A new oral history project at Newcastle University – Exiles Celebrating Sam – is interviewing people from Down, Donegal, and Derry who lived in Britain in the 1990s and remember celebrating winning the Sam Maguire Cup. The project explores how emigrants remember those famous sporting successes.

If you would be interested in contributing to this project, or would like to hear more, Dr Jack Hepworth would be delighted to hear from you. Please contact Jack by email at jack.hepworth@newcastle.ac.uk
All inquiries are handled in confidence, and there is no obligation to participate.